MAYOR MICHELLE WU ANNOUNCES ACTIONS TO INCREASE AFFORDABLE HOUSING

Mayor Wu announces new inclusionary development rules, commissions studies of Linkage to provide future new resources, and lays the foundation for a transfer fee and rent stabilization legislation, with the newly-renamed Mayor's Office of Housing to lead the charge

BOSTON - December 21, 2021 - Mayor Michelle Wu today announced a series of actions to increase affordable housing and stabilize communities. Mayor Wu announced that she will sign an executive order to reform the City's Inclusionary Development Policy (IDP), accelerating the production of affordable housing in Boston. The new IDP executive order reduces the number of units needed to trigger the policy, deepens the affordability of rental units, and encourages the production of more family-sized units. Along with the executive order, Mayor Wu announced that she will be forming a Rent Stabilization Committee to look at any and all tools available for local rent stabilization to protect tenants and stem displacement. The Mayor also stated she will be submitting a home rule petition calling for a real estate transfer fee to generate new resources for affordable housing, while expanding property tax relief provision for low-income senior homeowners. Finally, Mayor Wu announced she will be commissioning studies of both the IDP and Linkage policy to lay the groundwork for future changes.

NOT APPROVED - "The cost of housing is one of the biggest barriers our residents face to being able to work and stay in Boston," said Mayor Michelle Wu. "Today, we are moving with urgency towards a more livable city by taking steps to quickly create new affordable housing and pursue state-level action to stop displacement and stabilize families."

Inclusionary Development Program

The revised IDP reduces the number of units needed to be built to trigger affordability requirements from ten units to five units, and will affect any developer building five or more units of housing. The Wu Administration's new policy also establishes new affordability targets, requiring an average affordability level of 60% area median income \(AMI\), or \$65,250 for a household of three, with a maximum of 70% AMI, or \$76,100 for a household of three. ~~reduces the average maximum income on IDP units from 70% of Area Median Income (AMI), or $76,100 for a household of three persons, to an average of 60% AMI or $65,250 for a household of three.~~ Forty four percent of Boston residents are of low or moderate income, earning 60% of AMI. This reduction of maximum household income will also address a significant matter of equity. Not only will many of Boston's cost-burdened households be able to meet this criteria, but those households are also more likely to be Black, Indigenous, or People of Color (BIPOC).

Mayor Wu's new IDP requirements will also provide the City more flexibility to secure family-sized units, by requiring 13 percent of the square footage of the building being developed, rather than 13 percent of the total number of units being created. Under the old rules, a high percentage of market-rate units under development are studios or one-bedrooms, and therefore a high percentage of IDP units have also been studios or one-bedrooms. Under the new rules, the City may ask a developer for a higher number of family-sized units to meet IDP requirements.

In addition to these immediate changes to IDP, Mayor Wu is also commissioning a study of housing needs in Boston, as well as the financial feasibility of increasing the affordability requirement from 13 percent to meet or surpass the affordability requirements in neighboring cities. ~~20 percent or higher.~~ This study is expected to be completed within 150 days, and will set the stage for further changes of IDP requirements, as well as integrating the Inclusionary Development Policy into the Boston Zoning Code.

Sheila quote?

The Inclusionary Development Policy (IDP) was initiated in 2000 to require private residential developers to contribute affordable housing resources as part of their market rate development. Through November 2021, developers have created a total of 3,627 units of income-restricted housing through on-site or off-site units. Contributions by developers to the IDP Fund have led to the creation or preservation of 2,319 additional income-restricted units, for a total of 5,946 units created because of the IDP. The IDP was last revised in December 2015.

Linkage

Mayor Wu announced the commission of a new study required to make significant changes to Boston's commercial Linkage policy. The Linkage policy was created in 1983 to leverage the construction of commercial space for funding for affordable housing and, since 1986, also for workforce training, through payments by large commercial real estate developments to the Neighborhood Housing Trust and the Neighborhood Jobs Trust. As with the IDP feasibility study, recent legislation requires the completion of a new Linkage study in order for the City to make changes to the policy. This study is expected to be completed within 150 days. Possible changes that will be considered in this study include:

increasing the per-square foot fee to invest in housing and job training, lowering the square footage threshold that triggers Linkage payments, applying the exaction to each square foot of new developments that are subject to Linkage, speeding up the payment schedule by requiring full linkage payment for each building at the time that the building receives a building permit, and assuring that the City is maximizing the fees that can be extracted from all commercial uses, especially from Boston's current lab boom. These changes would generate more funds for affordable housing and workforce development efforts.

"We're delighted that Mayor Wu is moving forward on linkage, and that she's committing to a 150 day timeline," said Symone Crawford, Executive Director of the Massachusetts Affordable Housing Alliance. "Linkage was designed to mitigate the increased housing pressure and displacement of low- and moderate-income residents caused by large scale commercial development. The current linkage fee doesn't do that. We look forward to working with Mayor Wu to fix this."

"Linkage is the primary source for job training funding through the City, so we are thrilled that Mayor Wu is taking action on a nexus study," says Amy Nishman, Senior VP of Strategy at JVS Boston and president of the Job Training Alliance. "As Boston continues to recover, the development pipeline is strong, and the only way to ensure that Boston residents are eligible for the jobs being created is to fully fund effective job training programs."

Transfer Fee

Mayor Wu announced today that she will be pursuing a Home Rule Petition to establish a transfer fee on property sales of more than $2 million to support affordable housing, raising $36 million to $72 million a year. The Home Rule Petition would also include tax relief provisions to support the housing stability of low-income senior homeowners. A previous version, passed by the City Council in 2019, has failed to pass the MA legislature. The Mayor will be submitting the new version of the transfer tax legislation to the Boston City Council in the new year.

City-Owned Land for Housing

Meeting a goal that Mayor Wu established on the campaign trail, the Boston Planning & Development Agency (BPDA) and City staff will complete a review of City-owned property and parcels within the first 100 days of the Wu Administration to identify opportunities to develop supportive housing and affordable housing on public real estate.

Rent Stabilization

Mayor Wu is also taking the first steps towards implementing rent stabilization in Boston by forming a Rent Stabilization Advisory Committee. The members of this new Advisory group will be announced in January.

Mayor's Office of Housing

Finally, Mayor Wu is announcing that she will be renaming the City of Boston's Department of Neighborhood Development the Mayor's Office of Housing. This name change more accurately reflects the role that the former DND plays in the creation and preservation of affordable housing, and helping Bostonians obtain, maintain, and retain safe, affordable housing. The Mayor's Office of Housing (MOH) will develop and implement the City of Boston's housing creation and homelessness prevention plans and collaborate with local and national partners to find new solutions and build more housing affordable to all, particularly those with lower incomes. HR has been filed with the City Council, hearing has been held, working session this Friday. Once it goes to the State House, we all need to support

Increasing Linkage and Inclusionary Development

- Linkage funding is extracted from new commercial developments. The money collected is used to create affordable housing and fund job training. Legislation passed in 2021 allows Boston to set the extraction rates. Currently, the rate is $13/SF for housing and $2.39/sf for job training.
- In order to increase Linkage, a study is required. An RFP has been issued to hire a consultant to conduct this study and responses are due back Feb 22, 2022. The RFP has required the consultant to complete a separate financial analysis of commercial lab space.
- The Inclusionary Development Program requires developers of market rate housing to provide affordable units and sometimes, funding. Currently, developers are required to provide 13% of their units at below market prices. If they are meeting their obligation by providing units at an alternative location, the required percentage is 18%.
- The City has also issued an RFP to hire an independent consultant to complete an analysis to determine if we can extract more from private residential development - additional units, deepen affordability, and lower thresholds. Once again, interested consultants need to respond to the RFP by Feb 22, 2022.

ARPA & Land Inventory

American Rescue Plan Act (ARPA)

- The City will be using a significant portion of its ARPA funding on housing. This money must be obligated by December 31, 2024, and expended by December 31, 2026.
- Boston is very committed to ensuring that the ARPA funding advances racial equity in the City, and to that end, we anticipate investing a significant amount of this resource in homeownership development and programs.
- The State has designated a significant amount of its ARPA allocation for housing, including homeownership development and programming, rental housing development, permanent supportive housing, and public housing renovations. Boston is and will work closely with the state to assure Boston gets a significant share.

Land & Development Opportunities

- The Mayor has called for an inventory of all City owned, surplus property. The BPDA is currently completing this analysis and hopes to identify sites where significant housing can be built, especially housing that is affordable to Boston residents and those that need supportive living environments.

Rent Stabilization & Housing Strategy

Rent Stabilization

- A Rent Stabilization Advisory Committee is in formation.
- The City is reviewing models used in other cities and states.
- Committed to City-wide listening sessions.
- The objective is to work through 2022 to understand what is best for Boston and to file a rent stabilization bill in the next legislative session.

Revised Housing Strategy

- MOH staff compiling and reviewing relevant demographic, production and housing data.
- This strategy will incorporate and build on the current efforts outlined today.
- Boston will be seeking ideas and feedback - especially how the market can make help solve our housing issues

Hi Maya,

I am sorry that I missed your call yesterday. I discussed it with Chris Herbert at the beginning of January, but haven't heard from anyone since. Yes, I'd be happy to be part of the Rent Stabilization Advisory Committee. Unfortunately, I teach Tuesday and Thursday afternoons so I can't make the 3/15 meeting, but hopefully I could participate in the subsequent ones. Happy to talk further if that would be helpful! My cell phone is 917-623-2709.

Best wishes,
Justin

Thanks for the invite for the press conference tomorrow. I plan to make it. As you know, we are very committed to work hard on this to pass (like we did with IDP/linkage HRP!!!) with you all and it will be good to check in soon on your thoughts on strategy.

But I did want to put the ask out there if it was at all possible for the Mayor to mention tomorrow at the conference or in the press the other Transfer Fee and State Enabling legislation. The article today ended with a mention of the other home rules and state, which was good, but editorial was not good for the other local and state efforts. That was the Globe, not you guys!

Thanks for your consideration and ALL of your work on this & some many other tenant and housing pieces! and I will see you tomorrow!

Thank you so much for this invitation- I don't always see emails real time, so if you ever need to reach me with time sensitive requests, I do not mind being texted by my cell 617-733-6989

I would be happy to talk- today I am free 5:30-6:30

Monday I am free 8-9:30 or 12:30-1:30? Or 5-5:30?

Thanks Megan

sheila.dillon Action Required	Office 365	dharris Recipient
Unknown To address

How to Fix It

The address may be misspelled or may not exist. Try one or more of the following:

- Send the message again following these steps: In Outlook, open this non-delivery report (NDR) and choose Send Again from the Report ribbon. In Outlook on the web, select this NDR, then select the link "To send this message again, click here." Then delete and retype the entire recipient address. If prompted with an Auto-Complete List suggestion don't select it. After typing the complete address, click Send.
- Contact the recipient (by phone, for example) to check that the address exists and is correct.
- The recipient may have set up email forwarding to an incorrect address. Ask them to check that any forwarding they've set up is working correctly.
- Clear the recipient Auto-Complete List in Outlook or Outlook on the web by following the steps in this article: Fix email delivery issues for error code 5.1.10 in Office 365, and then send the message again. Retype the entire recipient address before selecting Send.

If the problem continues, forward this message to your email admin. If you're an email admin, refer to the More Info for Email Admins section below.

More Info for Email Admins

Status code: 550 5.1.10

This error occurs because the sender sent a message to an email address hosted by Office 365 but the address is incorrect or doesn't exist at the destination domain. The error is reported by the recipient domain's email server, but most often it must be fixed by the person who sent the message. If the steps in the How to Fix It section above don't fix the problem, and you're the email admin for the recipient, try one or more of the following:

The email address exists and is correct - Confirm that the recipient address exists, is correct, and is accepting messages.

Synchronize your directories - If you have a hybrid environment and are using directory synchronization make sure the recipient's email address is synced correctly in both Office 365 and in your on-premises directory.

Errant forwarding rule - Check for forwarding rules that aren't behaving as expected. Forwarding can be set up by an admin via mail flow rules or mailbox forwarding address settings, or by the recipient via the Inbox Rules feature.

Recipient has a valid license - Make sure the recipient has an Office 365 license assigned to them. The recipient's email admin can use the Office 365 admin center to assign a license (Users > Active Users > select the recipient > Assigned License > Edit).

Mail flow settings and MX records are not correct - Misconfigured mail flow or MX record settings can cause this error. Check your Office 365 mail flow settings to make sure your domain and any mail flow connectors are set up correctly. Also, work with your domain registrar to make sure the MX records for your domain are configured correctly.

For more information and additional tips to fix this issue, see Fix email delivery issues for error code 5.1.10 in Office 365.

How to Fix It

The address may be misspelled or may not exist. Try one or more of the following:

- Send the message again following these steps: In Outlook, open this non-delivery report (NDR) and choose Send Again from the Report ribbon. In Outlook on the web, select this NDR, then select the link "To send this message again, click here." Then delete and retype the entire recipient address. If prompted with an Auto-Complete List suggestion don't select it. After typing the complete address, click Send.
- Contact the recipient (by phone, for example) to check that the address exists and is correct.
- The recipient may have set up email forwarding to an incorrect address. Ask them to check that any forwarding they've set up is working correctly.
- Clear the recipient Auto-Complete List in Outlook or Outlook on the web by following the steps in this article: Fix email delivery issues for error code 5.1.10 in Office 365, and then send the message again. Retype the entire recipient address before selecting Send.

If the problem continues, forward this message to your email admin. If you're an email admin, refer to the More Info for Email Admins section below.

More Info for Email Admins

Status code: 550 5.1.10

This error occurs because the sender sent a message to an email address hosted by Office 365 but the address is incorrect or doesn't exist at the destination domain. The error is reported by the recipient domain's email server, but most often it must be fixed by the person who sent the message. If the steps in the How to Fix It section above don't fix the problem, and you're the email admin for the recipient, try one or more of the following:

The email address exists and is correct - Confirm that the recipient address exists, is correct, and is accepting messages.

Synchronize your directories - If you have a hybrid environment and are using directory synchronization make sure the recipient's email address is synced correctly in both Office 365 and in your on-premises directory.

Errant forwarding rule - Check for forwarding rules that aren't behaving as expected. Forwarding can be set up by an admin via mail flow rules or mailbox forwarding address settings, or by the recipient via the Inbox Rules feature.

Recipient has a valid license - Make sure the recipient has an Office 365 license assigned to them. The recipient's email admin can use the Office 365 admin center to assign a license (Users > Active Users > select the recipient > Assigned License > Edit).

Mail flow settings and MX records are not correct - Misconfigured mail flow or MX record settings can cause this error. Check your Office 365 mail flow settings to make sure your domain and any mail flow connectors are set up correctly. Also, work with your domain registrar to make sure the MX records for your domain are configured correctly.

For more information and additional tips to fix this issue, see Fix email delivery issues for error code 5.1.10 in Office 365.

Rent Stabilization Committee Kickoff Event
Whittier Health Center, Roxbury, MA
DRAFT Press Comments CRK
March 10, 2022

Madame Mayor, Housing Chief Dillon and other officials TBD,

1. Thank you for the opportunity to be a member of the Rent Stabilization Advisory Committee. I appreciate the City's effort to ensure that there is broad representation from industry and the advocacy community to debate this important issue.
2. We all agree that housing equity and affordability is an important issue in our City. Housing creation of all types, including affordable housing, is critical to our competitiveness on both the national and global stage. The challenge is to identify the levers that will drive progress, while balancing housing industry growth to maintain the vitality required for success.
3. While a highly controversial concept, the term "Rent Stabilization" can be defined in many different ways. The concept deserves careful consideration and thoughtful debate in the context of creating a toolkit of ideas that the City might deploy as it faces the affordable housing challenge.
4. We will make progress on the issue when we can have constructive dialogue and the open exchange of ideas. All parties must work together if we are to find compromise solutions that can have real impact on the ground. All of the affected constituents hold deeply held beliefs and there are real constraints associated with this issue. All deserve respect and fair consideration.
5. I bring to this committee an open mind and I look forward to listening carefully and engaging honestly with all committee members, and trust that they feel the same way.
6. Our metric of success is engaging in a fair and balanced process that helps advance our thinking and potentially has a positive impact on one of our City's most pressing issues.
7. I look forward to getting started. Thank you again.

MAYOR WU ANNOUNCES MEMBERS OF RENT STABILIZATION ADVISORY COMMITTEE

Committee will examine successful rent stabilization programs in other cities and consider measures to stop displacement of Boston families and protect tenants

BOSTON - Thursday, March 10, 2022 - Building upon her commitment to protect Boston renters, today Mayor Michelle Wu announced a Rent Stabilization Advisory Committee made up of housing advocates, developers, tenants, and other stakeholders. The advisory committee members will study local housing conditions as well as the structure and outcomes of rent stabilization programs in other cities. They will be tasked with making recommendations to the Mayor and the Mayor's Office of Housing on strategies to stabilize Boston rents and protect tenants from displacement. The committee will meet throughout 2022 with the goal of shaping a proposal for the next state legislative session.

"Cities across the country use rent stabilization as one tool among many to protect tenants and keep families in their homes," said Mayor Michelle Wu. "The majority of Boston residents and families are renters. If we aren't willing to take on the rent increases that are driving families out of Boston, then we aren't meeting the needs of our neighborhoods. I thank the broad group of stakeholders, including advocates, tenants, and developers, who are willing to roll up their sleeves to reimagine what's possible."

Rent stabilization measures in cities across the United States empower municipalities to set certain limits on annual rent increases for existing tenants, and may also include other tenant protections. These approaches promote the preservation of mixed-income neighborhoods and prevent renters from being pushed out of their communities.

"As an organizer fighting for a housing market that lets people move when they want, where they want, not when they have to, I am pleased to be a part of this committee," said Beyazmin Jimenez, Abundant Housing Massachusetts Board President. "I look forward to working with the other members of this committee to explore ways that the City can create more accessible housing in our communities."

"Having worked with previous Boston mayors on planning and affordable housing policy, I'm looking forward to being able to serve the new administration and offer my expertise to shape the conversation around rent stabilization," said Curtis Kemeny, CEO and President of Boston Residential Group. "This is a step in the right direction, and I am confident that the City will work to ensure a thoughtful, inclusive, and balanced policy that works for all residents."

Almost 65% of Bostonians are renters, and more than half of them spend more than 30% of their monthly income on rent, leaving them struggling to save and vulnerable to housing instability. The 2020 Census also made clear that Black families are leaving the city, with the non-Hispanic Black population citywide falling by over 6% between 2010-2020. Rent stabilization is one of many tools to support renters in the short term, alongside longer-term measures that can be used to tackle housing supply and affordability.

The work of this committee would complement the work of the Office of Housing Stability. The Office of Housing Stability helps tenants in housing crises due to fire, natural disaster, eviction, or condemnation with the goal of putting residents on the path to housing stability. Its efforts include launching tenants' rights clinics for those who are not able to come to City Hall during business hours; offering low- and no-cost mediation and dispute resolution for landlords and tenants; launching the Housing Court Navigator, which provides legal advice for tenants; launching the Landlord Incentive program, which offers financial backing for landlords renting to formerly unhoused people; and creating Boston's first-ever online guide to evictions, designed to assist tenants in every phase of a potential eviction proceeding.

Rent stabilization would complement Mayor Wu's other initiatives to address Boston's housing affordability, including the Transfer Fee and Senior Property Tax Exemption Home Rule Petition, and her commitment to update the City's commercial linkage fee and Inclusionary Development Policies. She is also highlighting the importance of Housing by renaming the Department of Neighborhood Development as the Mayor's Office of Housing, and bringing a new focus on equity by signing an Executive Order relative to affirmatively furthering fair housing.

This Advisory Committee will convene monthly to hear from experts on different rent stabilization models and City officials from the Mayor's Office of Housing and the Boston Planning & Development Agency (BPDA) on local rental market conditions. The committee will also hold community listening sessions throughout the process to hear community perspectives on housing affordability challenges and potential solutions. The first community listening session will be held virtually on April 19th, and the public can RSVP here to attend.

Draft response to come from city spokesperson:

Mayor Wu is working quickly to address the neighborhood's vulnerability to climate change and coastal flooding through the recently announced East Boston municipal harbor plan which will lay out a vision for a resilient East Boston waterfront that is accessible to everyone. The City is also creating neighborhood solutions to coastal flooding from sea level rise and coastal storms through the Climate Ready East Boston process.

Mayor Wu is also committed to a PLAN: East Boston process that expands affordable housing options, advances climate preparedness, promotes a healthy environment and transportation connectivity, and supports neighborhood economies that meet the needs of local residents and small businesses. This morning the mayor announced the members of the rent stabilization advisory committee which includes renters, housing advocates, and developers. Rent stabilization would complement Mayor Wu's other initiatives to address Boston's housing affordability, including the Transfer Fee and Senior Property Tax Exemption Home Rule Petition, and her commitment to update the City's commercial linkage fee and Inclusionary Development Policies. Hi,

I'm writing about different facets of East Boston gentrification. A few things we wanted your office to be able to comment on:

1) Some academic researchers are asserting that Eastie is a poster child for "green gentrification." In short, they claim that the new, green and climate resilient waterfront developments have accelerated gentrification in the neighborhood because of their open spaces and resilient aspects. Does the city have any thoughts about this theory?

2) The same researchers, citing local residents and advocates, have also taken aim at what they say has been a piecemeal, project-by-project approach to climate resiliency in East Boston. They report that locals are saying the new waterfront developments are "islands of resiliency" that may have just pushed flooding to other, older, less climate resilient parts of the neighborhood. What does the city make of that critique?

3) Also just wanted to give the mayor's office the opportunity to say what can be done to stem the tide of gentrification and displacement in Eastie.

The BPDA has responded to most of my inquiries on the matter.

Any insight would be welcome. Feel free to call me with any questions: 857-559-3234. Deadline is 5 p.m. tomorrow (Thursday).

Thank you for your time and consideration.

Hello everyone,

Thank you for your willingness to serve on the City's Rent Stabilization Advisory Committee. The Mayor so appreciates that each of you is volunteering your time and expertise to investigate how we can best stabilize the rental market for Boston renters.

I'm looking forward to working with all of you in this work, and am copying my colleagues from the Mayor's Office of Housing, Sheila Dillon and Tim Davis, who will also be working with the committee. Many of you have held time on your calendars for March 15th, but due to scheduling constraints we are pushing that meeting. You will hear from the three of us next week with details around our first meeting in March and what to expect.

Attached is the press release including the names of all the committee members for your reference. Thank you again for serving on the committee, and please let me know if you have any questions.

MAYOR WU ANNOUNCES MEMBERS OF RENT STABILIZATION ADVISORY COMMITTEE

Committee will examine successful rent stabilization programs in other cities and consider measures to stop displacement of Boston families and protect tenants

BOSTON - Thursday, March 10, 2022 - Building upon her commitment to protect Boston renters, today Mayor Michelle Wu announced a Rent Stabilization Advisory Committee made up of housing advocates, developers, tenants, and other stakeholders. The advisory committee members will study local housing conditions as well as the structure and outcomes of rent stabilization programs in other cities. They will be tasked with making recommendations to the Mayor and the Mayor's Office of Housing on strategies to stabilize Boston rents and protect tenants from displacement. The committee will meet throughout 2022 with the goal of shaping a proposal for the next state legislative session.

"Cities across the country use rent stabilization as one tool among many to protect tenants and keep families in their homes," said Mayor Michelle Wu. "The majority of Boston residents and families are renters. If we aren't willing to take on the rent increases that are driving families out of Boston, then we aren't meeting the needs of our neighborhoods. I thank the broad group of stakeholders, including advocates, tenants, and developers, who are willing to roll up their sleeves to reimagine what's possible."

Rent stabilization measures in cities across the United States empower municipalities to set certain limits on annual rent increases for existing tenants, and may also include other tenant protections. These approaches promote the preservation of mixed-income neighborhoods and prevent renters from being pushed out of their communities.

"As an organizer fighting for a housing market that lets people move when they want, where they want, not when they have to, I am pleased to be a part of this committee," said Beyazmin Jimenez, Abundant Housing Massachusetts Board President. "I look forward to working with the other members of this committee to explore ways that the City can create more accessible housing in our communities."

"Having worked with previous Boston mayors on planning and affordable housing policy, I'm looking forward to being able to serve the new administration and offer my expertise to shape the conversation around rent stabilization," said Curtis Kemeny, CEO and President of Boston Residential Group. "This is a step in the right direction, and I am confident that the City will work to ensure a thoughtful, inclusive, and balanced policy that works for all residents."

Almost 65% of Bostonians are renters, and more than half of them spend more than 30% of their monthly income on rent, leaving them struggling to save and vulnerable to housing instability. The 2020 Census also made clear that Black families are leaving the city, with the non-Hispanic Black population citywide falling by over 6% between 2010-2020. Rent stabilization is one of many tools to support renters in the short term, alongside longer-term measures that can be used to tackle housing supply and affordability.

The work of this committee would complement the work of the Office of Housing Stability. The Office of Housing Stability helps tenants in housing crises due to fire, natural disaster, eviction, or condemnation with the goal of putting residents on the path to housing stability. Its efforts include launching tenants' rights clinics for those who are not able to come to City Hall during business hours; offering low- and no-cost mediation and dispute resolution for landlords and tenants; launching the Housing Court Navigator, which provides legal advice for tenants; launching the Landlord Incentive program, which offers financial backing for landlords renting to formerly unhoused people; and creating Boston's first-ever online guide to evictions, designed to assist tenants in every phase of a potential eviction proceeding.

Rent stabilization would complement Mayor Wu's other initiatives to address Boston's housing affordability, including the Transfer Fee and Senior Property Tax Exemption Home Rule Petition, and her commitment to update the City's commercial linkage fee and Inclusionary Development Policies. She is also highlighting the importance of Housing by renaming the Department of Neighborhood Development as the Mayor's Office of Housing, and bringing a new focus on equity by signing an Executive Order relative to affirmatively furthering fair housing.

This Advisory Committee will convene monthly to hear from experts on different rent stabilization models and City officials from the Mayor's Office of Housing and the Boston Planning & Development Agency (BPDA) on local rental market conditions. The committee will also hold community listening sessions throughout the process to hear community perspectives on housing affordability challenges and potential solutions. The first community listening session will be held virtually on April 19th, and the public can RSVP here to attend.

This Advisory Committee will convene monthly to hear from experts on different rent stabilization models and City officials from the Mayor's Office of Housing and the Boston Planning & Development Agency (BPDA) on local rental market conditions. ## MAYOR WU ANNOUNCES MEMBERS OF RENT STABILIZATION ADVISORY COMMITTEE

Committee will examine successful rent stabilization programs in other cities and consider measures to stop displacement of Boston families and protect tenants

BOSTON - Thursday, March 10, 2022 - Building upon her commitment to protect Boston renters, today Mayor Michelle Wu announced a Rent Stabilization Advisory Committee made up of housing advocates, developers, tenants, and other stakeholders. The advisory committee members will study local housing conditions as well as the structure and outcomes of rent stabilization programs in other cities. They will be tasked with making recommendations to the Mayor and the Mayor's Office of Housing on strategies to stabilize Boston rents and protect tenants from displacement. The committee will meet throughout 2022 with the goal of shaping a proposal for the next state legislative session.

"Cities across the country use rent stabilization as one tool among many to protect tenants and keep families in their homes," said Mayor Michelle Wu. "The majority of Boston residents and families are renters. If we aren't willing to take on the rent increases that are driving families out of Boston, then we aren't meeting the needs of our neighborhoods. I thank the broad group of stakeholders, including advocates, tenants, and developers, who are willing to roll up their sleeves to reimagine what's possible."

Rent stabilization measures in cities across the United States empower municipalities to set certain limits on annual rent increases for existing tenants, and may also include other tenant protections. These approaches promote the preservation of mixed-income neighborhoods and prevent renters from being pushed out of their communities.

"As an organizer fighting for a housing market that lets people move when they want, where they want, not when they have to, I am pleased to be a part of this committee," said Beyazmin Jimenez, Abundant Housing Massachusetts Board President. "I look forward to working with the other members of this committee to explore ways that the City can create more accessible housing in our communities."

"Having worked with previous Boston mayors on planning and affordable housing policy, I'm looking forward to being able to serve the new administration and offer my expertise to shape the conversation around rent stabilization," said Curtis Kemeny, CEO and President of Boston Residential Group. "This is a step in the right direction, and I am confident that the City will work to ensure a thoughtful, inclusive, and balanced policy that works for all residents."

Almost 65% of Bostonians are renters, and more than half of them spend more than 30% of their monthly income on rent, leaving them struggling to save and vulnerable to housing instability. The 2020 Census also made clear that Black families are leaving the city, with the non-Hispanic Black population citywide falling by over 6% between 2010-2020. Rent stabilization is one of many tools to support renters in the short term, alongside longer-term measures that can be used to tackle housing supply and affordability.

The work of this committee would complement the work of the Office of Housing Stability. Hi Ms Millor, Ms Robbins and Mr. Firestone:

Hope all's well with you. Thanks if you have a few minutes to continue the conversation about the Rent Stabilization Committee.

I did follow the proceedings last week. I can appreciate how much hard work went into the process. No doubt a complicated piece of policy work to move forward.

I'm curious if you could share if there's a rationale for not recruiting a small landlord/advocate committee member. Perhaps the fear is that a small landlord who may have some reservations about rent control/stabilization would make committee progress harder to achieve. There are many large and small landlords (myself included) who would favor some form of rent stabilization -- and others could be convinced -- but without an actual small landlord/advocate on the committee, won't it be harder to recruit landlords to support a reasonable plan -- or at least to moderate their opposition.

Perhaps the Committee isn't worrying about trying to recruit landlords given the committee's perceptions of how the Legislative process will go. But the Jim Brooks Stabilization Act was defeated 131 - 29 (I may be off). Although circumstances do change over time, more work is needed to shift the legislative balance even with a likely Democrat in the corner office next year.

Perhaps the Committee will argue that:

- Dermot Doyne (Attorney, Restaurant Owner, Entrepreneur, Property Developer),
- Brian Kavogian (co-founded National Development's Investment Management Platform) and/or
- Curtis Kemeny (Pres of Residential Group which has been involved with the development and management of over 2,000 units valued at $1.0B).

and others are examples of committee members that will advocate for the small landlord (greater than owner occupied 3's but up to 9 or 12 unit owners for example) or who would bring a critical perspective. But optics do matter, I think you would agree.

One goal of the Committee, I hope, is to take arguments off the table that the committee won't be able to incorporate landlords' views, even with the public input process -- and thus landlords won't be able to advocate fairly for the public's best interests.

I do hope we can stay in touch as the Committee proceeds.

Thanks for your attention here.

Best,

Peter Shapiro

Hi Ms. Robbins and Ms. Millor:

Hope you are both staying warm this weekend.

With respect, I ask if there is a further way in which I can be included in the process of forming this Rent Stabilization Advisory Committee. I assume my colleagues at City Life Vida Urbana, Mass Law Reform Institute, Lynn United for Change and at other organizations, in addition to many knowledgeable individuals (Rep Connolly, Senator Jehlen, etc), respectfully, are interacting directly with you and your colleagues regarding its formation. Perhaps I'm off here. But as I have the respect of the small landlords through its various associations, whose views I don't always share, and given my interest in finding solutions that incorporate rent stabilization principles, I believe I can make valuable contributions to forming this advisory committee.

- Is there a document that lists which committee slots are being considered?
- Is there a process for deciding which slots and who will get each slot?
- Are committee protocols (how to get public input, how to make decisions etc) being debated?

Perhaps you are already meaningfully consulting other landlords, small and large, in forming this committee -- which would be great to hear. Although I work hard to not be too strongly associated with either side of the Landlord-Tenant continuum, I have devoted 30 years working specifically to address issues of landlord-tenant stability, affordable housing and homelessness prevention and can be of help.

I do hope to hear back as I believe the input of a wide range of advocates will help strengthen the committee's argument that it is consulting widely and has included advocates across the spectrum of views .

Happy MLK day to you,

Dear Tali:

Thank you for your reply. I appreciate hearing from you.

As I sense you understand and value, with respect to forming and running a committee, to the extent that the City will meaningfully incorporate input from stakeholder groups, public officials, process experts, constituents and others with respect to:

1. Which individuals and organizations (slots) will be on the Committee.
2. What protocols will be established for running the committee
3. Which research/reports the committee will decide to obtain,
4. What criteria the committee will use to assess research/information
5. How the committee will deliberate and make decisions

these groups and individuals will be less likely to attack its credibility let alone dispute the results -- bringing the facts into dispute.

Among the various slots, will a small landlord slot be created? Will a slot be created for a process-oriented person, knowledgeable of the issues, who is committed to pursuing problem solving approaches with an eye to sustainability, political stability and efficiency.

Is it possible to do a zoom meeting or have a phone conversation with you/others?

Thank you again for your follow up.

Dear Ms. Millor:

Happy New Year to you and your family. I am a resident (constituent) of Boston, living at 46 Dunster Rd. Jamaica Plain, MA. Congratulations on your new appointment!

I write, hoping you may be able to take a few minutes to review these thoughts regarding the upcoming Rent Stabilization Advisory Committee being formed by Mayor Wu. I hope to hear your thoughts. I have been reaching out to other professionals as well regarding these suggestions.

I work for DND's Office of Housing Stability as the City of Boston's Landlord Counselor/Mediator. I also run a Helpline for MassLandlords, a statewide association for small landlords (I do not necessarily endorse MassLandlord's policy positions). I write you though as a small landlord and as a constituent

As a mediator on landlord/tenant and housing/development issues, I do not argue that consensus can necessarily be achieved or should even be the goal of this committee. But I strongly argue that these of consensus building principles can make it more likely that this Committee will ultimately be able to get a new Ordinance through the state legislature.

Knowing there will be deep divisions across interested stakeholders, and that the fights will be quite escalated, and that differences won't be eliminated, these differences can be narrowed if the process is done well. Although the landlords may be unlikely to fully endorse the results of this Committee, they would be less justified in criticizing the process -- and they may express agreement for some aspects of its recommendations -- if the process is perceived as fair across the stakeholder groups.

Below is an outline of basic consensus building principles I believe would make this process most successful. (based on my own experience, consulting the literature, and talking with process experts/colleagues I know). I can refer you to people much smarter than me to clarify this further.

1. Design an Effective Committee Process (who decides this? What input is offered to decision makers as they decide it?)

- a. Selection of committee slots (whether committee will include: tenant advocates / affordable housing advocates / state/city/nonprofit reps / landlord advocates / developers / brokers / pro-anti tax advocates / others)
- b. Develop job description for committee slots
- c. Develop criteria for selecting / rejecting committee members
- d. Carry out committee member application process
- e. Alternate member selection process
- f. Develop committee member roles and responsibilities
- g. Decide Committee decision-making rule:
  - Consensus
  - Voting (Majority or Super majority (2/3<sup>d</sup> vote)
  - Compromise
  - Authority Rule (Mayor? Other)
- h. Hire a convenor/process manager to help committee design and carry out process

2. Committee Conducts a Conflictor Situation Assessment:

Doing an assessment involves gathering initial information about the conflict or situation to set the stage for joint fact finding, evaluating the information and making advisory recommendations for how to solve it. Conducting a conflict assessment will:

- a. Help stakeholders increase their understanding of the problem. Data Collection methodologies include:
  - Interviews (individual, group, interest groups)
  - Information gathering / Research
  - Questionnaires and surveys
  - Other
- b. Help design the process: Protocols to develop include:
  - Research / data gathering
  - Assessing research/data
  - Collaborative learning
  - Receiving/evaluating outside information/input (will enhance legitimacy of process)
  - Meeting format
  - Communication with each other and with outsiders between meetings
  - Media/press communication
- c. Conflict assessment report written

3. Joint Fact Finding:

Joint fact finding is a procedure for involving those affected by policy decisions in the process of generating and analyzing the technical/research info used to make advisory recommendations.

Using this process to gather and assess research and analysis provided by the landlord groups, in addition to that provided by all others, will substantially increase the committee's ability to advocate successfully for its recommendations, in my view.

Although the committee may ultimately make recommendations that are not supported by the landlord groups, the committee can use a joint fact-finding process that incorporates research (Qualitative/Quantitative/Descriptive/Action Research, policy reports, polls, case studies, etc) provided by the landlord groups in addition to the range of other organizations. Provided the scope of research the committee decides to review, and how the committee assesses the research incorporates small and large landlord views, this will enhance the legitimacy of this committee.

Using Joint fact-finding will build public trust in the process, increase popular support, and widen the zone of possible agreements across interested stakeholders. Steps include:

- Generate technical / research questions
- Identify existing information and knowledge gaps
- Decide on methods for dealing with conflict data and interpretations of facts
- Identify relevant methods of information gathering/analysis, highlighting benefits and disadvantages of each
- Do the fact finding, drawing on expertise and knowledge of stakeholders
- Review drafts of fact-finding reports
- Translate findings into possible policy recommendations
- Clarify remaining uncertainties and appropriate contingent responses
- Determine how Joint fact finding has or has not answered key questions
- Present findings to stakeholders
- Communicate to various constituencies and policy-makers
- Determine if further fact finding is necessary

4. Produce Final Report /Recommendations

5. Build a process for winning legislative approval for final recommendations

A few final points

1. I have attached an article I wrote for MassLandlords (I run their Helpline) called: How to Raise the Rent in Massachusetts: How a Landlord Should Decide Whether and How much. I believe this piece offers sound principles that could be incorporated into a Rent Stabilization program.

<https://masslandlords.net/how-to-raise-the-rent-in-massachusetts-how-a-landlord-should-decide-whether-and-how-much/>

2. Five years experience working with the Cambridge Rent Control Board I worked from 1989 – 1994 for Just A Start as the City of Cambridge's Landlord Counselor, working with the Cambridge Rent Control Board (CRCB). Duties included:

- Assisting landlords to proceed through the Cambridge Rent Control Board (CRCB) administrative hearings process to receive rent increases
- Counseling landlords on their rights and responsibilities
- Helping establish a mediation program at the CRCB
- Helping landlords negotiate agreements with tenant counselors over issues of eviction, move outs/stays, lease violations, tenancy changes etc.
- Participate in weekly CRCB Policy meetings, and
- Assist the five (5) member Rent Board to pursue possible improvements to CRCB procedure that could make the CRCB more sustainable and politically stable.

The CRCB was the strictest of the three ordinances at the time. (Brookline/Boston) After the Statewide Enabling Statute was voted out Nov 1994, over the next 20 years, as Just Cause Eviction, Collective Bargaining, Jim Brooks and other Rent Stabilization programs were debated, I engaged with the advocates on these proposed programs.

3. I am a long term small landlord that provides well maintained, highly affordable rental housing, holding onto a few three families and a lodging house: I know the challenges of being a small landlord and why they either succeed, fail or sell. I wrote a book entitled: The Good Landlord: A Guide to Making a Profit While Making a Difference to help landlords do the right thing sustainably.

4. As the Office of Housing Stability's Landlord Counselor/Mediator, I know how small landlords supply a large share of the City's affordable housing and what it takes to keep them going. I spend my days talking with owner-occupied 3 family owners and small investor owners, many of whom are trying to do the right thing and avoid selling to the highest bidder, but who need more help.

Thank you for your attention to this,

Best,

Hi Ms Millor, Ms Robbins and Mr. Firestone:

Hope all's well with you. Thanks if you have a few minutes to continue the conversation about the Rent Stabilization Committee.

I did follow the proceedings last week. I can appreciate how much hard work went into the process. No doubt a complicated piece of policy work to move forward.

I'm curious if you could share if there's a rationale for not recruiting a small landlord/advocate committee member. Perhaps the fear is that a small landlord who may have some reservations about rent control/stabilization would make committee progress harder to achieve. There are many large and small landlords (myself included) who would favor some form of rent stabilization -- and others could be convinced -- but without an actual small landlord/advocate on the committee, won't it be harder to recruit landlords to support a reasonable plan -- or at least to moderate their opposition.

Perhaps the Committee isn't worrying about trying to recruit landlords given the committee's perceptions of how the Legislative process will go. But the Jim Brooks Stabilization Act was defeated 131 - 29 (I may be off). Although circumstances do change over time, more work is needed to shift the legislative balance even with a likely Democrat in the corner office next year.

Perhaps the Committee will argue that:

- Dermot Doyne (Attorney, Restaurant Owner, Entrepreneur, Property Developer),
- Brian Kavogian (co-founded National Development's Investment Management Platform) and/or
- Curtis Kemeny (Pres of Residential Group which has been involved with the development and management of over 2,000 units valued at $1.0B).

and others are examples of committee members that will advocate for the small landlord (greater than owner occupied 3's but up to 9 or 12 unit owners for example) or who would bring a critical perspective. But optics do matter, I think you would agree.

One goal of the Committee, I hope, is to take arguments off the table that the committee won't be able to incorporate landlords' views, even with the public input process -- and thus landlords won't be able to advocate fairly for the public's best interests.

I do hope we can stay in touch as the Committee proceeds.

Thanks for your attention here.

Best,

Hi Ms. Robbins and Ms. Millor:

Hope you are both staying warm this weekend.

With respect, I ask if there is a further way in which I can be included in the process of forming this Rent Stabilization Advisory Committee. I assume my colleagues at City Life Vida Urbana, Mass Law Reform Institute, Lynn United for Change and at other organizations, in addition to many knowledgeable individuals (Rep Connolly, Senator Jehlen, etc), respectfully, are interacting directly with you and your colleagues regarding its formation. Perhaps I'm off here. But as I have the respect of the small landlords through its various associations, whose views I don't always share, and given my interest in finding solutions that incorporate rent stabilization principles, I believe I can make valuable contributions to forming this advisory committee.

- Is there a document that lists which committee slots are being considered?
- Is there a process for deciding which slots and who will get each slot?
- Are committee protocols (how to get public input, how to make decisions etc) being debated?

Perhaps you are already meaningfully consulting other landlords, small and large, in forming this committee -- which would be great to hear. Although I work hard to not be too strongly associated with either side of the Landlord-Tenant continuum, I have devoted 30 years working specifically to address issues of landlord-tenant stability, affordable housing and homelessness prevention and can be of help.

I do hope to hear back as I believe the input of a wide range of advocates will help strengthen the committee's argument that it is consulting widely and has included advocates across the spectrum of views .

Happy MLK day to you,

Dear Tali:

Thank you for your reply. I appreciate hearing from you.

As I sense you understand and value, with respect to forming and running a committee, to the extent that the City will meaningfully incorporate input from stakeholder groups, public officials, process experts, constituents and others with respect to:

1. Which individuals and organizations (slots) will be on the Committee.
2. What protocols will be established for running the committee
3. Which research/reports the committee will decide to obtain,
4. What criteria the committee will use to assess research/information
5. How the committee will deliberate and make decisions

these groups and individuals will be less likely to attack its credibility let alone dispute the results -- bringing the facts into dispute.

Among the various slots, will a small landlord slot be created? Will a slot be created for a process-oriented person, knowledgeable of the issues, who is committed to pursuing problem solving approaches with an eye to sustainability, political stability and efficiency.

Is it possible to do a zoom meeting or have a phone conversation with you/others?

Thank you again for your follow up.

Dear Ms. Millor:

Happy New Year to you and your family. I am a resident (constituent) of Boston, living at 46 Dunster Rd. Jamaica Plain, MA. Congratulations on your new appointment!

I write, hoping you may be able to take a few minutes to review these thoughts regarding the upcoming Rent Stabilization Advisory Committee being formed by Mayor Wu. I hope to hear your thoughts. I have been reaching out to other professionals as well regarding these suggestions.

I work for DND's Office of Housing Stability as the City of Boston's Landlord Counselor/Mediator. I also run a Helpline for MassLandlords, a statewide association for small landlords (I do not necessarily endorse MassLandlord's policy positions). I write you though as a small landlord and as a constituent

As a mediator on landlord/tenant and housing/development issues, I do not argue that consensus can necessarily be achieved or should even be the goal of this committee. But I strongly argue that these of consensus building principles can make it more likely that this Committee will ultimately be able to get a new Ordinance through the state legislature.

Knowing there will be deep divisions across interested stakeholders, and that the fights will be quite escalated, and that differences won't be eliminated, these differences can be narrowed if the process is done well. Although the landlords may be unlikely to fully endorse the results of this Committee, they would be less justified in criticizing the process -- and they may express agreement for some aspects of its recommendations -- if the process is perceived as fair across the stakeholder groups.

Below is an outline of basic consensus building principles I believe would make this process most successful. (based on my own experience, consulting the literature, and talking with process experts/colleagues I know). I can refer you to people much smarter than me to clarify this further.

1. Design an Effective Committee Process (who decides this? What input is offered to decision makers as they decide it?)

- a. Selection of committee slots (whether committee will include: tenant advocates / affordable housing advocates / state/city/nonprofit reps / landlord advocates / developers / brokers / pro-anti tax advocates/ others)
- b. Develop job description for committee slots
- c. Develop criteria for selecting / rejecting committee members
- d. Carry out committee member application process
- e. Alternate member selection process
- f. Develop committee member roles and responsibilities
- g. Decide Committee decision-making rule:
  - Consensus
  - Voting (Majority or Super majority (2/3<sup>d</sup> vote)
  - Compromise
  - Authority Rule (Mayor? Other)
- h. Hire a convenor/process manager to help committee design and carry out process

2. Committee Conducts a Conflictor Situation Assessment:

Doing an assessment involves gathering initial information about the conflict or situation to set the stage for joint fact finding, evaluating the information and making advisory recommendations for how to solve it. Conducting a conflict assessment will:

- a. Help stakeholders increase their understanding of the problem. Data Collection methodologies include:
  - Interviews (individual, group, interest groups)
  - Information gathering / Research
  - Questionnaires and surveys
  - Other
- b. Help design the process: Protocols to develop include:
  - Research / data gathering
  - Assessing research/data
  - Collaborative learning

- Receiving/evaluating outside information/input (will enhance legitimacy of process)
  - Meeting format
  - Communication with each other and with outsiders between meetings
  - Media/press communication
- c. Conflict assessment report written

3. Joint Fact Finding:

Joint fact finding is a procedure for involving those affected by policy decisions in the process of generating and analyzing the technical/research info used to make advisory recommendations.

Using this process to gather and assess research and analysis provided by the landlord groups, in addition to that provided by all others, will substantially increase the committee's ability to advocate successfully for its recommendations, in my view.

Although the committee may ultimately make recommendations that are not supported by the landlord groups, the committee can use a joint fact-finding process that incorporates research (Qualitative/Quantitative/Descriptive/Action Research, policy reports, polls, case studies, etc) provided by the landlord groups in addition to the range of other organizations. Provided the scope of research the committee decides to review, and how the committee assesses the research incorporates small and large landlord views, this will enhance the legitimacy of this committee.

Using Joint fact-finding will build public trust in the process, increase popular support, and widen the zone of possible agreements across interested stakeholders. Steps include:

- Generate technical / research questions
- Identify existing information and knowledge gaps
- Decide on methods for dealing with conflict data and interpretations of facts
- Identify relevant methods of information gathering/analysis, highlighting benefits and disadvantages of each
- Do the fact finding, drawing on expertise and knowledge of stakeholders
- Review drafts of fact-finding reports
- Translate findings into possible policy recommendations
- Clarify remaining uncertainties and appropriate contingent responses
- Determine how Joint fact finding has or has not answered key questions
- Present findings to stakeholders
- Communicate to various constituencies and policy-makers
- Determine if further fact finding is necessary

4. Produce Final Report /Recommendations

5. Build a process for winning legislative approval for final recommendations

A few final points

1. I have attached an article I wrote for MassLandlords (I run their Helpline) called: How to Raise the Rent in Massachusetts: How a Landlord Should Decide Whether and How much. I believe this piece offers sound principles that could be incorporated into a Rent Stabilization program.

<https://masslandlords.net/how-to-raise-the-rent-in-massachusetts-how-a-landlord-should-decide-whether-and-how-much/>

2. Five years experience working with the Cambridge Rent Control Board I worked from 1989 – 1994 for Just A Start as the City of Cambridge's Landlord Counselor, working with the Cambridge Rent Control Board (CRCB). Duties included:

- Assisting landlords to proceed through the Cambridge Rent Control Board (CRCB) administrative hearings process to receive rent increases
- Counseling landlords on their rights and responsibilities
- Helping establish a mediation program at the CRCB
- Helping landlords negotiate agreements with tenant counselors over issues of eviction, move outs/stays, lease violations, tenancy changes etc.
- Participate in weekly CRCB Policy meetings, and
- assist the five (5) member Rent Board to pursue possible improvements to CRCB procedure that could make the CRCB more sustainable and politically stable.

The CRCB was the strictest of the three ordinances at the time. (Brookline/Boston) After the Statewide Enabling Statute was voted out Nov 1994, over the next 20 years, as Just Cause Eviction, Collective Bargaining, Jim Brooks and other Rent Stabilization programs were debated, I engaged with the advocates on these proposed programs.

3. I am a long term small landlord that provides well maintained, highly affordable rental housing, holding onto a few three families and a lodging house: I know the challenges of being a small landlord and why they either succeed, fail or sell. I wrote a book entitled: The Good Landlord: A Guide to Making a Profit While Making a Difference to help landlords do the right thing sustainably.

4. As the Office of Housing Stability's Landlord Counselor/Mediator, I know how small landlords supply a large share of the City's affordable housing and what it takes to keep them going. I spend my days talking with owner-occupied 3 family owners and small investor owners, many of whom are trying to do the right thing and avoid selling to the highest bidder, but who need more help.

Thank you for your attention to this,

Best,

MAYOR WU ANNOUNCES MEMBERS OF RENT STABILIZATION ADVISORY COMMITTEE

Committee will examine successful rent stabilization programs in other cities and consider measures to stop displacement of Boston families and protect tenants

BOSTON - Thursday, March 10, 2022 - Building upon her commitment to protect Boston renters, today Mayor Michelle Wu announced a Rent Stabilization Advisory Committee made up of housing advocates, developers, tenants, and other stakeholders. The advisory committee members will study local housing conditions as well as the structure and outcomes of rent stabilization programs in other cities. They will be tasked with making recommendations to the Mayor and the Mayor's Office of Housing on strategies to stabilize Boston rents and protect tenants from displacement. The committee will meet throughout 2022 with the goal of shaping a proposal for the next state legislative session.

"Cities across the country use rent stabilization as one tool among many to protect tenants and keep families in their homes," said Mayor Michelle Wu. "The majority of Boston residents and families are renters. If we aren't willing to take on the rent increases that are driving families out of Boston, then we aren't meeting the needs of our neighborhoods. I thank the broad group of stakeholders, including advocates, tenants, and developers, who are willing to roll up their sleeves to reimagine what's possible."

Rent stabilization measures in cities across the United States empower municipalities to set certain limits on annual rent increases for existing tenants, and may also include other tenant protections. These approaches promote the preservation of mixed-income neighborhoods and prevent renters from being pushed out of their communities.

"As an organizer fighting for a housing market that lets people move when they want, where they want, not when they have to, I am pleased to be a part of this committee," said Beyazmin Jimenez, Abundant Housing Massachusetts Board President. "I look forward to working with the other members of this committee to explore ways that the City can create more accessible housing in our communities."

“Having worked with previous Boston mayors on planning and affordable housing policy, I’m looking forward to being able to serve the new administration and offer my expertise to shape the conversation around rent stabilization,” said Curtis Kemeny, CEO and President of Boston Residential Group. “This is a step in the right direction, and I am confident that the City will work to ensure a thoughtful, inclusive, and balanced policy that works for all residents.”

Almost 65% of Bostonians are renters, and more than half of them spend more than 30% of their monthly income on rent, leaving them struggling to save and vulnerable to housing instability. The 2020 Census also made clear that Black families are leaving the city, with the non-Hispanic Black population citywide falling by over 6% between 2010-2020. Rent stabilization is one of many tools to support renters in the short term, alongside longer-term measures that can be used to tackle housing supply and affordability.

The work of this committee would complement the work of the Office of Housing Stability. The Office of Housing Stability helps tenants in housing crises due to fire, natural disaster, eviction, or condemnation with the goal of putting residents on the path to housing stability. Its efforts include launching tenants' rights clinics for those who are not able to come to City Hall during business hours; offering low- and no-cost mediation and dispute resolution for landlords and tenants; launching the Housing Court Navigator, which provides legal advice for tenants; launching the Landlord Incentive program, which offers financial backing for landlords renting to formerly unhoused people; and creating Boston's first-ever online guide to evictions, designed to assist tenants in every phase of a potential eviction proceeding.

Rent stabilization would complement Mayor Wu’s other initiatives to address Boston’s housing affordability, including the Transfer Fee and Senior Property Tax Exemption Home Rule Petition, and her commitment to update the City’s commercial linkage fee and Inclusionary Development Policies. She is also highlighting the importance of Housing by renaming the Department of Neighborhood Development as the Mayor’s Office of Housing, and bringing a new focus on equity by signing an Executive Order relative to affirmatively furthering fair housing.

This Advisory Committee will convene monthly to hear from experts on different rent stabilization models and City officials from the Mayor’s Office of Housing and the Boston Planning & Development Agency (BPDA) on local rental market conditions. The committee will also hold community listening sessions throughout the process to hear community perspectives on housing affordability challenges and potential solutions. The first community listening session will be held virtually on April 19th, and the public can RSVP here to attend.

Dear Advisory Committee Members,

Thank you so much for agreeing to serve on the City's Rent Stabilization Advisory Committee. On behalf of Mayor Wu and the entire City team, we appreciate your willingness to help us consider policies to protect renters and address displacement of Boston families. My name is Maya Getter and I'm a policy advisor in the Mayor's Office. I will be providing ongoing staff support to the committee and look forward to getting to know you all.

On this email, I am also copying Sheila Dillon and Tim Davis from the Mayor's Office of Housing and Mike Firestone and Tali Robbins from the policy office, who will be working with the committee.

We had discussed holding a meeting next week, but are now planning to schedule our first meeting in late March. I will follow up next week with a date and time for our first meeting and other materials to support the committee in our work.

Below and attached, please see the press release announcing the committee. We thank you all for rolling up your sleeves on this important initiative for Boston residents. We look forward to working with you.

Sincerely,

MAYOR WU ANNOUNCES MEMBERS OF RENT STABILIZATION ADVISORY COMMITTEE

Committee will examine successful rent stabilization programs in other cities and consider measures to stop displacement of Boston families and protect tenants

BOSTON - Thursday, March 10, 2022 - Building upon her commitment to protect Boston renters, today Mayor Michelle Wu announced a Rent Stabilization Advisory Committee made up of housing advocates, developers, tenants, and other stakeholders. The advisory committee members will study local housing conditions as well as the structure and outcomes of rent stabilization programs in other cities. They will be tasked with making recommendations to the Mayor and the Mayor's Office of Housing on strategies to stabilize Boston rents and protect tenants from displacement. The committee will meet throughout 2022 with the goal of shaping a proposal for the next state legislative session.

"Cities across the country use rent stabilization as one tool among many to protect tenants and keep families in their homes," said Mayor Michelle Wu. "The majority of Boston residents and families are renters. If we aren't willing to take on the rent increases that are driving families out of Boston, then we aren't meeting the needs of our neighborhoods. I thank the broad group of stakeholders, including advocates, tenants, and developers, who are willing to roll up their sleeves to reimagine what's possible."

Rent stabilization measures in cities across the United States empower municipalities to set certain limits on annual rent increases for existing tenants, and may also include other tenant protections. These approaches promote the preservation of mixed-income neighborhoods and prevent renters from being pushed out of their communities.

"As an organizer fighting for a housing market that lets people move when they want, where they want, not when they have to, I am pleased to be a part of this committee," said Beyazmin Jimenez, Abundant Housing Massachusetts Board President. "I look forward to working with the other members of this committee to explore ways that the City can create more accessible housing in our communities.”

“Having worked with previous Boston mayors on planning and affordable housing policy, I’m looking forward to being able to serve the new administration and offer my expertise to shape the conversation around rent stabilization,” said Curtis Kemeny, CEO and President of Boston Residential Group. “This is a step in the right direction, and I am confident that the City will work to ensure a thoughtful, inclusive, and balanced policy that works for all residents.”

Almost 65% of Bostonians are renters, and more than half of them spend more than 30% of their monthly income on rent, leaving them struggling to save and vulnerable to housing instability. The 2020 Census also made clear that Black families are leaving the city, with the non-Hispanic Black population citywide falling by over 6% between 2010-2020. Rent stabilization is one of many tools to support renters in the short term, alongside longer-term measures that can be used to tackle housing supply and affordability.

The work of this committee would complement the work of the Office of Housing Stability. The Office of Housing Stability helps tenants in housing crises due to fire, natural disaster, eviction, or condemnation with the goal of putting residents on the path to housing stability. Its efforts include launching tenants' rights clinics for those who are not able to come to City Hall during business hours; offering low- and no-cost mediation and dispute resolution for landlords and tenants; launching the Housing Court Navigator, which provides legal advice for tenants; launching the Landlord Incentive program, which offers financial backing for landlords renting to formerly unhoused people; and creating Boston's first-ever online guide to evictions, designed to assist tenants in every phase of a potential eviction proceeding.

Rent stabilization would complement Mayor Wu’s other initiatives to address Boston’s housing affordability, including the Transfer Fee and Senior Property Tax Exemption Home Rule Petition, and her commitment to update the City’s commercial linkage fee and Inclusionary Development Policies. She is also highlighting the importance of Housing by renaming the Department of Neighborhood Development as the Mayor’s Office of Housing, and bringing a new focus on equity by signing an Executive Order relative to affirmatively furthering fair housing.

This Advisory Committee will convene monthly to hear from experts on different rent stabilization models and City officials from the Mayor’s Office of Housing and the Boston Planning & Development Agency (BPDA) on local rental market conditions. The committee will also hold community listening sessions throughout the process to hear community perspectives on housing affordability challenges and potential solutions. The first community listening session will be held virtually on April 19th, and the public can RSVP here to attend.

Hi Peter,

Thanks for reaching out and good to meet you.

As you know, forming these groups is a process and we've received a range of feedback about the composition, largely very positive. We'll certainly consider your suggestions as we think about structuring participation and engagement in the months ahead.

Let's stay in touch,

Mike

Hi Ms Millor, Ms Robbins and Mr. Firestone:

Hope all's well with you. Thanks if you have a few minutes to continue the conversation about the Rent Stabilization Committee.

I did follow the proceedings last week. I can appreciate how much hard work went into the process. No doubt a complicated piece of policy work to move forward.

I'm curious if you could share if there's a rationale for not recruiting a small landlord/advocate committee member. Perhaps the fear is that a small landlord who may have some reservations about rent control/stabilization would make committee progress harder to achieve. There are many large and small landlords (myself included) who would favor some form of rent stabilization -- and others could be convinced -- but without an actual small landlord/advocate on the committee, won't it be harder to recruit landlords to support a reasonable plan -- or at least to moderate their opposition.

Perhaps the Committee isn't worrying about trying to recruit landlords given the committee's perceptions of how the Legislative process will go. But the Jim Brooks Stabilization Act was defeated 131 - 29 (I may be off). Although circumstances do change over time, more work is needed to shift the legislative balance even with a likely Democrat in the corner office next year.

Perhaps the Committee will argue that:

- Dermot Doyme (Attorney, Restaurant Owner, Entrepreneur, Property Developer),
- Brian Kavogian (co-founded National Development's Investment Management Platform) and/or
- Curtis Kemeny (Pres of Residential Group which has been involved with the development and management of over 2,000 units valued at $1.0B).

and others are examples of committee members that will advocate for the small landlord (greater than owner occupied 3's but up to 9 or 12 unit owners for example) or who would bring a critical perspective. But optics do matter, I think you would agree.

One goal of the Committee, I hope, is to take arguments off the table that the committee won't be able to incorporate landlords' views, even with the public input process -- and thus landlords won't be able to advocate fairly for the public's best interests.

I do hope we can stay in touch as the Committee proceeds.

Thanks for your attention here.

Best,

Peter Shapiro

Hi Ms. Robbins and Ms. Millor:

Hope you are both staying warm this weekend.

With respect, I ask if there is a further way in which I can be included in the process of forming this Rent Stabilization Advisory Committee. I assume my colleagues at City Life Vida Urbana, Mass Law Reform Institute, Lynn United for Change and at other organizations, in addition to many knowledgeable individuals (Rep Connolly, Senator Jehlen, etc), respectfully, are interacting directly with you and your colleagues regarding its formation. Perhaps I'm off here. But as I have the respect of the small landlords through its various associations, whose views I don't always share, and given my interest in finding solutions that incorporate rent stabilization principles, I believe I can make valuable contributions to forming this advisory committee.

- Is there a document that lists which committee slots are being considered?
- Is there a process for deciding which slots and who will get each slot?
- Are committee protocols (how to get public input, how to make decisions etc) being debated?

Perhaps you are already meaningfully consulting other landlords, small and large, in forming this committee -- which would be great to hear. Although I work hard to not be too strongly associated with either side of the Landlord-Tenant continuum, I have devoted 30 years working specifically to address issues of landlord-tenant stability, affordable housing and homelessness prevention and can be of help.

I do hope to hear back as I believe the input of a wide range of advocates will help strengthen the committee's argument that it is consulting widely and has included advocates across the spectrum of views .

Happy MLK day to you,

Dear Tali:

Thank you for your reply. I appreciate hearing from you.

As I sense you understand and value, with respect to forming and running a committee, to the extent that the City will meaningfully incorporate input from stakeholder groups, public officials, process experts, constituents and others with respect to:

1. Which individuals and organizations (slots) will be on the Committee.
2. What protocols will be established for running the committee
3. Which research/reports the committee will decide to obtain,
4. What criteria the committee will use to assess research/information
5. How the committee will deliberate and make decisions

these groups and individuals will be less likely to attack its credibility let alone dispute the results -- bringing the facts into dispute.

Among the various slots, will a small landlord slot be created? Will a slot be created for a process-oriented person, knowledgeable of the issues, who is committed to pursuing problem solving approaches with an eye to sustainability, political stability and efficiency.

Is it possible to do a zoom meeting or have a phone conversation with you/others?

Thank you again for your follow up.

Dear Ms. Millor:

Happy New Year to you and your family. I am a resident (constituent) of Boston, living at 46 Dunster Rd. Jamaica Plain, MA. Congratulations on your new appointment!

I write, hoping you may be able to take a few minutes to review these thoughts regarding the upcoming Rent Stabilization Advisory Committee being formed by Mayor Wu. I hope to hear your thoughts. I have been reaching out to other professionals as well regarding these suggestions.

I work for DND's Office of Housing Stability as the City of Boston's Landlord Counselor/Mediator. I also run a Helpline for MassLandlords, a statewide association for small landlords (I do not necessarily endorse MassLandlord's policy positions). I write you though as a small landlord and as a constituent

As a mediator on landlord/tenant and housing/development issues, I do not argue that consensus can necessarily be achieved or should even be the goal of this committee. But I strongly argue that these consensus building principles can make it more likely that this Committee will ultimately be able to get a new Ordinance through the state legislature.

Knowing there will be deep divisions across interested stakeholders, and that the fights will be quite escalated, and that differences won't be eliminated, these differences can be narrowed if the process is done well. Although the landlords may be unlikely to fully endorse the results of this Committee, they would be less justified in criticizing the process -- and they may express agreement for some aspects of its recommendations -- if the process is perceived as fair across the stakeholder groups.

Below is an outline of basic consensus building principles I believe would make this process most successful. (based on my own experience, consulting the literature, and talking with process experts/colleagues I know). I can refer you to people much smarter than me to clarify this further.

1. Design an Effective Committee Process (who decides this? What input is offered to decision makers as they decide it?)

- a. Selection of committee slots (whether committee will include: tenant advocates / affordable housing advocates / state/city/nonprofit reps / landlord advocates / developers / brokers / pro-anti tax advocates / others)
- b. Develop job description for committee slots
- c. Develop criteria for selecting / rejecting committee members
- d. Carry out committee member application process
- e. Alternate member selection process
- f. Develop committee member roles and responsibilities
- g. Decide Committee decision-making rule:
  - Consensus
  - Voting (Majority or Super majority (2/3<sup>d</sup> vote)
  - Compromise
  - Authority Rule (Mayor? Other)
- h. Hire a convenor/process manager to help committee design and carry out process

2. Committee Conducts a Conflictor Situation Assessment:

Doing an assessment involves gathering initial information about the conflict or situation to set the stage for joint fact finding, evaluating the information and making advisory recommendations for how to solve it. Conducting a conflict assessment will:

- a. Help stakeholders increase their understanding of the problem. Data Collection methodologies include:
  - Interviews (individual, group, interest groups)
  - Information gathering / Research
  - Questionnaires and surveys
  - Other
- b. Help design the process: Protocols to develop include:
  - Research / data gathering
  - Assessing research/data
  - Collaborative learning

- Receiving/evaluating outside information/input (will enhance legitimacy of process)
  - Meeting format
  - Communication with each other and with outsiders between meetings
  - Media/press communication
- c. Conflict assessment report written

3. Joint Fact Finding:

Joint fact finding is a procedure for involving those affected by policy decisions in the process of generating and analyzing the technical/research info used to make advisory recommendations.

Using this process to gather and assess research and analysis provided by the landlord groups, in addition to that provided by all others, will substantially increase the committee's ability to advocate successfully for its recommendations, in my view.

Although the committee may ultimately make recommendations that are not supported by the landlord groups, the committee can use a joint fact-finding process that incorporates research (Qualitative/Quantitative/Descriptive/Action Research, policy reports, polls, case studies, etc) provided by the landlord groups in addition to the range of other organizations. Provided the scope of research the committee decides to review, and how the committee assesses the research incorporates small and large landlord views, this will enhance the legitimacy of this committee.

Using Joint fact-finding will build public trust in the process, increase popular support, and widen the zone of possible agreements across interested stakeholders. Steps include:

- Generate technical / research questions
- Identify existing information and knowledge gaps
- Decide on methods for dealing with conflict data and interpretations of facts
- Identify relevant methods of information gathering/analysis, highlighting benefits and disadvantages of each
- Do the fact finding, drawing on expertise and knowledge of stakeholders
- Review drafts of fact-finding reports
- Translate findings into possible policy recommendations
- Clarify remaining uncertainties and appropriate contingent responses
- Determine how Joint fact finding has or has not answered key questions
- Present findings to stakeholders
- Communicate to various constituencies and policy-makers
- Determine if further fact finding is necessary

4. Produce Final Report /Recommendations

5. Build a process for winning legislative approval for final recommendations

A few final points

1. I have attached an article I wrote for MassLandlords (I run their Helpline) called: How to Raise the Rent in Massachusetts: How a Landlord Should Decide Whether and How much. I believe this piece offers sound principles that could be incorporated into a Rent Stabilization program.

<https://masslandlords.net/how-to-raise-the-rent-in-massachusetts-how-a-landlord-should-decide-whether-and-how-much/>

2. Five years experience working with the Cambridge Rent Control Board. I worked from 1989 – 1994 for Just A Start as the City of Cambridge's Landlord Counselor, working with the Cambridge Rent Control Board (CRCB). Duties included:

- Assisting landlords to proceed through the Cambridge Rent Control Board (CRCB) administrative hearings process to receive rent increases
- Counseling landlords on their rights and responsibilities
- Helping establish a mediation program at the CRCB
- Helping landlords negotiate agreements with tenant counselors over issues of eviction, move outs/stays, lease violations, tenancy changes etc.
- Participate in weekly CRCB Policy meetings, and
- assist the five (5) member Rent Board to pursue possible improvements to CRCB procedure that could make the CRCB more sustainable and politically stable.

The CRCB was the strictest of the three ordinances at the time. (Brookline/Boston) After the Statewide Enabling Statute was voted out Nov 1994, over the next 20 years, as Just Cause Eviction, Collective Bargaining, Jim Brooks and other Rent Stabilization programs were debated, I engaged with the advocates on these proposed programs.

3. I am a long term small landlord that provides well maintained, highly affordable rental housing, holding onto a few three families and a lodging house: I know the challenges of being a small landlord and why they either succeed, fail or sell. I wrote a book entitled: The Good Landlord: A Guide to Making a Profit While Making a Difference to help landlords do the right thing sustainably.

4. As the Office of Housing Stability's Landlord Counselor/Mediator, I know how small landlords supply a large share of the City's affordable housing and what it takes to keep them going. I spend my days talking with owner-occupied 3 family owners and small investor owners, many of whom are trying to do the right thing and avoid selling to the highest bidder, but who need more help.

Thank you for your attention to this,

Best,

MAYOR WU ANNOUNCES MEMBERS OF RENT STABILIZATION ADVISORY COMMITTEE

Committee will examine successful rent stabilization programs in other cities and consider measures to stop displacement of Boston families and protect tenants

BOSTON - Thursday, March 10, 2022 - Building upon her commitment to protect Boston renters, today Mayor Michelle Wu announced a Rent Stabilization Advisory Committee made up of housing advocates, developers, tenants, and other stakeholders. The advisory committee members will study local housing conditions as well as the structure and outcomes of rent stabilization programs in other cities. They will be tasked with making recommendations to the Mayor and the Mayor's Office of Housing on strategies to stabilize Boston rents and protect tenants from displacement. The committee will meet throughout 2022 with the goal of shaping a proposal for the next state legislative session.

"Cities across the country use rent stabilization as one tool among many to protect tenants and keep families in their homes," said Mayor Michelle Wu. "The majority of Boston residents and families are renters. If we aren't willing to take on the rent increases that are driving families out of Boston, then we aren't meeting the needs of our neighborhoods. I thank the broad group of stakeholders, including advocates, tenants, and developers, who are willing to roll up their sleeves to reimagine what's possible."

Rent stabilization measures in cities across the United States empower municipalities to set certain limits on annual rent increases for existing tenants, and may also include other tenant protections. These approaches promote the preservation of mixed-income neighborhoods and prevent renters from being pushed out of their communities.

"As an organizer fighting for a housing market that lets people move when they want, where they want, not when they have to, I am pleased to be a part of this committee," said Beyazmin Jimenez, Abundant Housing Massachusetts Board President. "I look forward to working with the other members of this committee to explore ways that the City can create more accessible housing in our communities."

“Having worked with previous Boston mayors on planning and affordable housing policy, I’m looking forward to being able to serve the new administration and offer my expertise to shape the conversation around rent stabilization,” said Curtis Kemeny, CEO and President of Boston Residential Group. “This is a step in the right direction, and I am confident that the City will work to ensure a thoughtful, inclusive, and balanced policy that works for all residents.”

Almost 65% of Bostonians are renters, and more than half of them spend more than 30% of their monthly income on rent, leaving them struggling to save and vulnerable to housing instability. The 2020 Census also made clear that Black families are leaving the city, with the non-Hispanic Black population citywide falling by over 6% between 2010-2020. Rent stabilization is one of many tools to support renters in the short term, alongside longer-term measures that can be used to tackle housing supply and affordability.

The work of this committee would complement the work of the Office of Housing Stability. The Office of Housing Stability helps tenants in housing crises due to fire, natural disaster, eviction, or condemnation with the goal of putting residents on the path to housing stability. Its efforts include launching tenants' rights clinics for those who are not able to come to City Hall during business hours; offering low- and no-cost mediation and dispute resolution for landlords and tenants; launching the Housing Court Navigator, which provides legal advice for tenants; launching the Landlord Incentive program, which offers financial backing for landlords renting to formerly unhoused people; and creating Boston's first-ever online guide to evictions, designed to assist tenants in every phase of a potential eviction proceeding.

Rent stabilization would complement Mayor Wu’s other initiatives to address Boston’s housing affordability, including the Transfer Fee and Senior Property Tax Exemption Home Rule Petition, and her commitment to update the City’s commercial linkage fee and Inclusionary Development Policies. She is also highlighting the importance of Housing by renaming the Department of Neighborhood Development as the Mayor’s Office of Housing, and bringing a new focus on equity by signing an Executive Order relative to affirmatively furthering fair housing.

This Advisory Committee will convene monthly to hear from experts on different rent stabilization models and City officials from the Mayor’s Office of Housing and the Boston Planning & Development Agency (BPDA) on local rental market conditions. The committee will also hold community listening sessions throughout the process to hear community perspectives on housing affordability challenges and potential solutions. The first community listening session will be held virtually on April 19th, and the public can RSVP here to attend.

Dear Mayor Wu,

Although, I tend to not get perturbed by appointments to ad hoc commissions, in this case, I must express my disappointment that Action for Equity was not asked to be on the Rent Control Commission. Several years ago, advocates from all the housing groups in the greater Boston area convened to see if we could agree on a common primary goal. Action pushed for rent control, but most groups voted to move forward a housing stabilization bill that became known as the "Jim Brooks" Stabilization Act.

Although we agreed to support the efforts to get that legislation passed, we did not endorse it. We made it very clear that we thought the bill was too weak and would not achieve anything meaningful and we should be spending our energy on bringing back some form of rent control/stabilization. We continued to work on that effort by going to numerous neighborhood association meetings to push the idea. We knew that most neighborhood associations are comprised mainly of homeowners, a lot of whom are small landlords. We wanted to get to them to explain our side of the story as we knew SPOA would be reaching out to thwart any attempts at housing stabilization, including the Jim Brooks Act.

When the "Jim Brooks" Stabilization Act failed, a lot of groups from all over Massachusetts, including Action, decided to reconvene and explore the possibility of pushing rent control. It is really great to see you moving forward on this effort by creating a housing commission, and I see a number of my esteemed colleagues on the list, BUT, they represent a number of the groups who put rent control on the backburner as we tried to keep it alive, yet they are asked to be on the commission, not us. Perhaps this history was not known to you or whoever came up with the nominations for this group, but now that you know, I hope you will move to remedy this situation.

Thank you,
Marvin Martin
